For parent groups

The PTO Email

Boston Youth Farm Project

Subject: A grow lab for our school, and a Harvest Night for every family

Hi everyone,

I'd like us to consider giving our classrooms a grow lab from Boston Youth Farm Project this term.

Here is what it is: a rolling rack of microgreens that lives in the classroom for four weeks. Students plant kale, arugula and radish, measure them each week, and harvest and eat them together in week four. Then every family is invited to Harvest Night.

Here is why the principal will like it: students answer a short private Check-In about belonging before planting and before harvest, and the school gets a one-page brief showing what changed.

The lessons, printables and family invitations (English and Spanish) are ready. I'd like 10 minutes at our next meeting to show two slides.

Thank you,
[Your name]

For our school

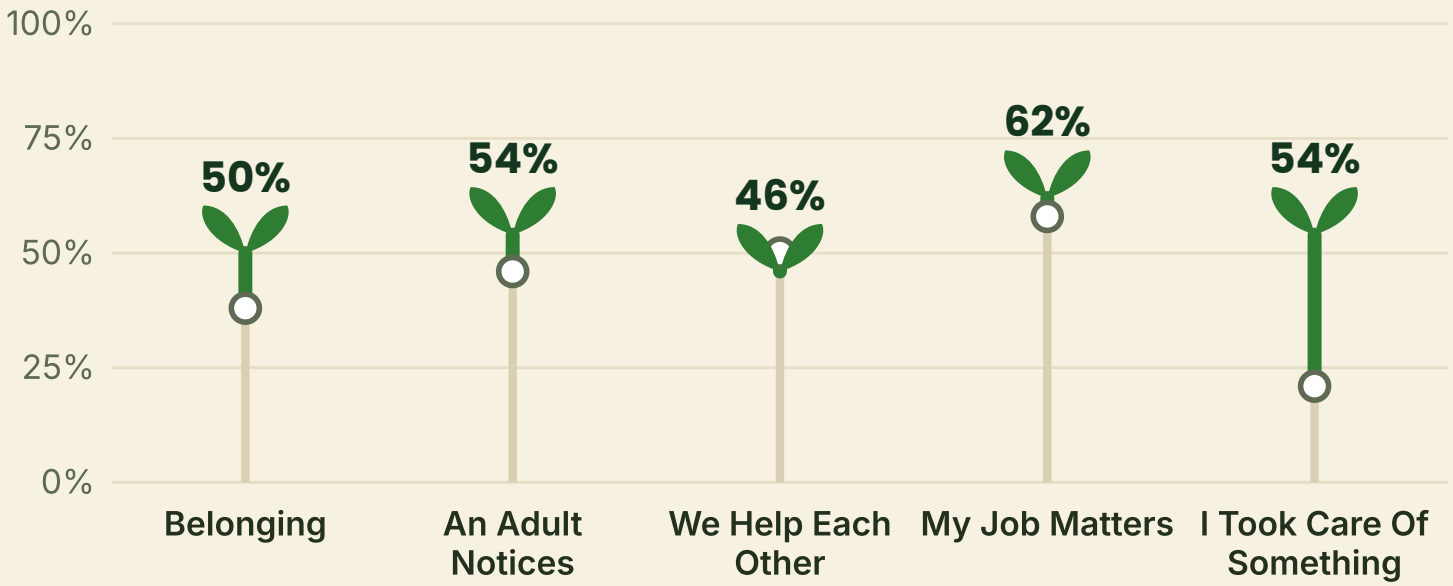
A Classroom Farm, Seed To Salad In Four Weeks

Kale, arugula and radish. Every student has a job. Every family is invited to Harvest Night.

Boston Youth Farm Project

What our principal gets

Evidence That Belonging Grew SAMPLE



Week 1 ● Week 4 Agreeing = Mostly or Totally

A private Check-In before and after, and a one-page brief for the school plan.